1. Rationale: Gender is not only an important dimension of individual identity but a major dimension of the social structure. We will look at sociological theories of gender, the way gender acts as an organizing principle in our everyday lives, the role of gender in our social institutions, and how gender inequality is experienced.

When we examine gender, we must also consider race, social class, and sexuality. This approach is what we call an intersectional perspective. In this class we will examine the ways in which gender intersects with these other categories to produce different gendered experiences within U.S. society.

2. Course Aims, Objectives, and Outcomes: This course, offered through the Center for Gender, Sexualities, and Women's Studies Research, focuses on social science perspectives on sex and gender. As a sociologist, I will emphasize sociological perspectives on gender. This course is also a social and behavioral sciences (S) subject area course in the UF General Education Program. (It also satisfies a Diversity requirement.) Social and behavioral science courses provide instruction in the history, key themes, principles, terminology, and underlying theory or methodologies used in the social and behavioral sciences.

Students will learn to identify, describe, and explain social institutions, structures or processes. These courses emphasize the effective application of accepted problem-solving techniques. Students will apply formal and informal qualitative or quantitative analysis to examine the processes and means by which individuals make personal and group decisions as well as the evaluation of opinions, outcomes, or human behavior. Students are expected to assess and analyze ethical perspectives in individual and societal decisions. At the end of this course, students will be expected to have achieved the following learning outcomes concerning content, communication, and critical thinking: Content: Demonstrate competence in the terminology, concepts, theories, and methodologies used within the discipline. Communication: Communicate knowledge, ideas, and reasoning clearly and effectively in written and oral forms appropriate to the discipline. Critical Thinking: Analyze information carefully and logically from multiple perspectives, using discipline-specific methods, and develop reasoned solutions to problems

Specific Learning Objectives: Introduce students to basic sociological concepts and theories through their application to the study of gender.

By the end of the course, students will:

- Recognize that observed differences in women's and men's lives are influenced by societal forces; that is, the social construction of gender in everyday lives.
- Understand the ways in which women's and men's life experiences vary by race, ethnicity, social class, sexual identity, and age
- Explore the ways in which gender is built into social institutions such as the family, the economy, education, religion, science, government and politics, the criminal justice system, and the mass media.

- Examine the ways in which gender, along with race, ethnicity, and social class, can shape the distribution of resources, power, and privilege.
3. TECHNOLOGY RESOURCES: For issues with technical difficulties for Canvas, please contact the UF Help Desk, not me. Here's the help desk contact info: <http://helpdesk.ufl.edu> • (352) 392-HELP (4357) • Walk-in: HUB 132 Any requests for make-ups due to technical issues should be accompanied by the ticket number received from the Help Desk when the problem was reported to them. The ticket number will document the time and date of the problem. You should e-mail me within 24 hours of the technical difficulty if you wish to request a make-up or extension.
 4. REQUIREMENTS, ASSIGNMENTS, AND ASSESSMENTS: A careful reading of the textbook is essential for success in this course. All of the assessments are based on your understanding of the material presented in the text. Class will be structured around readings from the text and other outside sources. We will structure our discussions around a sociological perspective, and students are expected to participate in a mature and responsible manner and respect the rights of others and their opinions.
 5. ESTABLISHING A QUALITY LEARNING ENVIRONMENT: People learn best when they are encouraged to ask questions and express their diverse opinions on course content, which may include images, texts, data, and theories from across the disciplines. This is especially true in courses that deal with provocative or contemporary issues. In this class, Social Perspectives on Gender and Sexuality, students will encounter concepts of race, color, sex, and/or national origin. We teach these important issues because understanding them is essential for anyone who seeks to make economic, cultural, and societal contributions to today's complex world. With this in mind, we do not limit access to, or classroom discussion of, facts, ideas, and opinions—including those that some may find uncomfortable, unwelcome, disagreeable, or even offensive. In response to challenging material, students and instructors are encouraged to ask honest questions and thoughtfully engage one another's ideas. But hostility, disruptive and disrespectful behavior, and provocation for provocation's sake have no place in a classroom; reasonable people disagree reasonably. These guidelines can help instructors and students as they work together to fulfill the mission of the University of Florida, which includes the exploration of intellectual boundaries, the creation of new knowledge, and the pursuit of new ideas.

If students have concerns about classroom issues, disagreements, or grades, your first point of contact is me, your instructor. Please see my contact information at the top of this syllabus and on Canvas. I am always available and open to discuss concerns. If the problem cannot be resolved, we will email the next departmental contact: this may be the departmental course coordinator or the department chair. Their contact information can be found on the program's website at <https://wst.ufl.edu/> Email to the departmental contact should include a clear description of your concern and any supporting documents.

REQUIRED TEXTBOOK: Questioning Gender: A Sociological Exploration (4th edition), by Robyn Ryle. Sage Publications. 2021.

Attendance

Attendance in this course is recommended, but it is not required. Please access class via Zoom at the designated start time. You can also access content on Canvas.

Assessments:

1. Examinations (50x3=150 points): Each exam will assess the basic understandings of three sections, which are the foundation for the course. There are three exams. The exams are NOT cumulative, and each will consist of 50 multiple-choice questions pertaining to lecture, in-class discussion, and course material from the three sections. They will be on Canvas. No additional software is needed.
2. Response Papers (4x30 =120 points): These (4) response papers help students identify and develop an understanding of the construction of sociological knowledge and develop critical thinking, reading, and writing skills. They are due no later than the listed time/day. Each response needs to have a minimum of 750 words and maximum of 800. See the assignment page for rubric. Submit via Canvas. You will receive points off for late projects. There are SEVEN assigned papers, but I will drop the lowest three grades. This will total the 3,000-word requirement.

3. Participation Total: 40 points

A. Participation Reflections Discussion Posts (10x3=28 pts Intro and Takeaway posts are 2 points): These assignments connect the material to the lived local experiences of students as well as more global ones. You are required to “reflect” or comment on at least one of the additional articles that correspond to each chapter by posting on the Discussion thread. Your post must be at least 100 words and analyze the topic of that week and how the article intersects with the topic. You need 10 out of 10. The reflections must critically analyze the MATERIAL. Tie it back to the material for that week. They must be posted from the author’s account and must be original. *Introduction posts are mandatory. I will use these posts as a jumping off for our in-class discussions, so be prepared to discuss your post. All posts will be via Canvas. This will fulfill 1,000 words for the requirement.

B. Discussion Responses (6x2= 12points): These responses allow students to interact with each other and learn others’ perspectives. You are to comment on the chapter discussion posts for the week. A positive learning environment relies upon creating an atmosphere where diverse perspectives can be expressed, especially in a course that focuses on pressing and controversial social and political issues. Each student is encouraged to take an active part in class discussions and activities. Honest and respectful dialogue is expected. Disagreement and challenging of ideas in a supportive and sensitive manner is encouraged. Hostility and disrespectful behavior is not acceptable. Just as we expect others to listen attentively to our own views, we must reciprocate and listen to others when they speak, especially when we disagree with them. However, in this class, our emphasis will be on engaging in the mutual exploration of issues as presented in the course readings as scholars rather than in defending points of view we have formed outside the classroom.

Tie your arguments back to the chapter material. You are only required to respond to 6/10 posts. All posts are via Canvas. Again, I will use these responses as part of our in-class discussions, so be prepared to discuss your responses.

WRITING REQUIREMENT: This course has a 4000 word writing requirement. For more information about UF’s writing requirement, see <https://catalog.ufl.edu/UGRD/student-responsibilities/writing-requirement/> In essence, your papers are evaluated not only for content but also for construction and writing style.

*Please note: An earned grade of C minus will not be a qualifying grade for your major, minor, Gen. Ed., or basic distribution credits.

Grade Point Totals:

310-290 = A
289-278 = A-
277-269 = B+
268-256 = B
255-247 = B-
246-238 = C+
237-225 = C
224-216 = C-
215-207 = D+
206-194 = D
193-185 = D-
<184 = E

*There MAY be opportunities for bonus points.

More information about grades and UF’s grading policies is available in the Undergraduate Catalog <https://catalog.ufl.edu/UGRD/academic-regulations/grades-grading-policies>

5. UNIVERSITY POLICIES, PROCEDURES, AND RESOURCES

UF ACADEMIC INTEGRITY: This course will subscribe to the University of Florida Student Honor Code. A central part of the UF Honor Code is the Honor Pledge: “The Honor Pledge: We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honesty and integrity by abiding by the Student Honor Code. On all work submitted for credit by Students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: “On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment.” Further information about the UF Honor Code and guidelines for Academic Honesty are here.

In this course, plagiarism or cheating of any kind will not be tolerated and will result in failing the course and other disciplinary action. In all instances, you must do your own work. There is no excuse for plagiarism, or for submitting another's work, ideas, or wording as your own. This includes using direct quotes from online sources without citation or submitting a paper you bought but did not write. Ignorance is not an excuse. Please be aware that there are various anti-plagiarism techniques available for use by University of Florida faculty that enables faculty members to determine if research papers have been plagiarized. There is a difference between plagiarism and collaboration. Collaboration, for purposes of this class, is the act of discussing ideas with classmates, debating issues, and examining readings from the class together so that each of you arrives at your own independent thought. Collaboration in this class is encouraged.

STUDENT CONDUCT CODE AND SEXUAL HARASSMENT: This course also operates under UF's Student Conduct Code. The Student Conduct Code is a set of standards and regulations which describe the rights, privileges, and responsibilities for all currently enrolled students at the University of Florida. For more information, click here. UF provides an educational and working environment for its students, faculty, and staff that is free from sex discrimination and sexual harassment. For more information, see UF policies regarding harassment. Furthermore, in order to make this an effective course for everyone, all participants will be expected to meet the professional standards of integrity expected for members of the Center for Gender, Sexualities, and Women's Studies Research. This means I expect all participants to interact with peers “professionally,” meaning with honesty, ethical behavior, cultural sensitivity, teamwork, and effective communication. Additionally, I expect all course participants will fulfill work obligations in a thoughtful and timely way, and display collegiality and sensitivity to faculty and other students.

UF GENDER EQUITY: The Office for Accessibility and Gender Equity provides support to anyone affected by sexual or gender-based misconduct, harassment, or discrimination. Please know that both your instructor in this course is considered Officials with Authority who are required to report violations of the gender equity policy. “Title IX is a federal law that requires officials with the authority to take action, to report violations of the gender equity policy. Officials with authority must report these violations to the Title IX Coordinator or their deputies. The obligation to report applies whenever an Official with Authority receives, in the course and scope of employment, information about the alleged misconduct and policy violation. The report must include all information known to the employee which would be relevant to an investigation or redress of the incident, including whether the alleged victim has expressed a desire for confidentiality.” For further information, including how to make a report, click here. Below are some specialist support services. You might not need them, but you might know someone who does. For specialist support in the aftermath of sexual assault, the Office of Victim Services on campus offer confidential, free support 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Office of Victim Services : 1515 Museum Road, (352) 392-5648 (Monday – Friday, 8:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.) Phone: (352) 392-1111 (after business hours and on weekends)

Alachua County Victim Services & Rape Crisis Center 352-264-6760 Monday-Friday, 8:30AM- 5PM, some services available 24/7

Peaceful Paths Domestic Abuse Network 352-377-8255 (24-hour helpline)

ACCOMMODATIONS: The University of Florida is committed to providing equal educational access to students with disabilities. The Disability Resource Center (DRC) collaborates with campus partners to facilitate access and inclusion for Gators with disabilities. Students with disabilities requesting accommodations should first register with the UF Disability Resource Center (0001 Building 0020-Reid Hall, accessuf@dso.ufl.edu; Voice 352-392-8565; Fax, 352-392-8570) by providing appropriate documentation. Once registered, students will receive an accommodation letter which must be presented to the instructor when requesting accommodations. Students with disabilities should follow this procedure as early as possible in the semester. Information for students from the DRC is available here. In this course, I am committed to providing equitable education access through reasonable accommodations as outlined in your accommodation letter. Please notify me within the first two weeks of class about any accommodations needed for the course. Late notification may cause the requested accommodation to be unavailable.

COMMUNITY RESOURCES: Your well-being is important to the University of Florida. The U Matter, We Care initiative is committed to creating a culture of care on our campus by encouraging members of our community to look out for one another and to reach out for help if a member of our community is in need. If you or a friend is in distress, please contact umatter@ufl.edu so that the U Matter, We Care Team can reach out to the student in distress. A nighttime and weekend crisis counselor are available by phone at 352-392-1575. The U Matter, We Care Team can help connect students to the many other helpful resources available including, but not limited to, Victim Advocates, Housing staff, and the Counseling and Wellness Center. Please remember that asking for help is a sign of strength. In case of emergency, call 9-1-1. Here are additional resources:

Course Evaluations: Students are expected to provide feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing online evaluations at evaluations.ufl.edu. Evaluations are typically open during the last two or three weeks of the semester, but students will be given specific times when they are open. Summary results of these assessments are available to students at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu/results/>.

Consider Adding a (second) Major in Women's Studies!

Do you want to learn about issues of diversity, power, equity, and justice and gain the scholarly knowledge and skills to change the world? Adding the Women's Studies major can deepen your critical thinking, analysis, and skills in intersectional feminist approaches to studying and transforming gender, race, class, sexualities and other systems of power. The Women's Studies major shows graduate schools and employers that you bring advanced knowledge and skills about diversity and equity issues. The 30-credit Women's Studies major consists of four core courses and six electives. It's simple to combine with another major, and up to 15 credits can double count with another degree (English, Psychology, and Sociology in particular have many courses that can double count). It's also the perfect complement to pre-health studies. Contact undergraduate coordinator Dr. Alyssa Zucker (azucker@ufl.edu) to make an appointment to discuss adding the major.
